

---

Just arrived

Posted by kimnkitties - 2008/05/05 15:38

---

Well, when I finished going through a jar of buttons I purchased at an estate auction this weekend, I realized I might have become an unwitting collector. I seem to pick up at least a few in a container at every sale I go to, and they have added up. I'm wondering how collectors store or display their buttons. I have quite a few that are still on the cards in a basket, then loose ones in different containers by age and type. I'm just now really paying attention to them and noticing the many different types and things they are made of.

=====