
Read this first!

Posted by admin - 2007/12/29 16:10

Using a forum to create a member driven support system will benefit all of us. They are also a great place to meet like minded people who can and will help you. I know some people are shy about posting in forums, I know I used to be (but look at the way I spell). All I can say is don't be. They are a fantastic place to learn for free.

This forum is going to be unmoderated. Unmoderated means that posts will not be reviewed before they are displayed on the forum. So please treat it and the people in this forum with respect. Do not place links to any adult sites or sites of a questionable nature. (if in doubt ask).

As a reminder, you can view all posts to the forum as a guest. However, to post in the forum you have to be a member. You can sign up free by registering at the top of the forum.

I hope you enjoy this forum and get a lot of use out of it.

=====